Subject: Ohmite Acquisition of Ultronix Wirewound Resistors from Vishay

Dear Ultronix Customer,

The announcement on page 2 of this letter confirms that Ohmite Manufacturing Company (Division of The Heico Companies, LLC) acquired Ultronix Precision Wirewound Resistors Operation from Vishay Intertechnology.

As part of the acquisition, all tooling, test equipment, raw materials, and documentation related to the Ultronix operation were transferred to Ohmite. Manufacturing of the Ultronix resistor line will be conducted by Ohmite in our Barbados operation. Likewise, all testing will be conducted at the Barbados site. Operators from the Barbados facility were trained at Vishay Malverne, PA over a 2 week period. Their activities included the manufacturing of resistors under Vishay supervision.

Former Ultronix customers may continue to purchase parts under the old Ultronix Part Numbering System.

All interested customers are welcome to visit, tour, and audit the Barbados operation with sufficient prior notice to Ohmite. Contact your Regional Sales Manager if you wish to make arrangements for a facilities tour.

Yours truly,

Kirk Schwiebert
Director of Strategic Planning and New Product Development

February 1, 2007

Dear Ultronix Customer:

On December 5, 2006 Vishay Intertechnology Inc. (Vishay) and Ohmite Holding LLC (Ohmite) entered into an agreement where Ohmite will purchase all the assets of the Ultronix business from Vishay. The acquisition has been completed as of February 1, 2007 and the manufacturing assets of Ultronix are being transferred to one of Ohmite's facilities. Ohmite personnel have been training on the Ultronix manufacturing line for several weeks and a transfer buffer stock has been established to assure a smooth transition. All manufacturing and test procedures have also been transferred.

Effective February 2, 2007, all Ultronix business should be directed to Ohmite's Sales and Customer Service Group. It is the intent of this transaction for Ohmite to continue to service the customers in the same way that you have been serviced by Vishay.

Thank you for you past business and thank you in advance for your continued future business. Listed below are the Ohmite sales group contact information.

Thank you for you support and patience during the transition and please feel free to contact us with any questions.
